New drivers - New uniforms! These three sophomores of Appomattox County High School, Patsy Hughes, Patty Clements and Pam Lawson are applying for learners' permits to L. E. Nash (left) and George Cheatham (right) who are wearing new uniforms of examiners of the Dept. of Motor Vehicles. The students plan to enroll for driver's training and then practice and study for the big day they take the wheel as fully licensed drivers.

New Uniform Greets Applicants For Va. Licenses

Virginians taking driver examinations are now being greeted by a DMV Field Services Representative in a civilian-type uniform. These men and women were formerly called "Examiners" and wore police-type uniforms. Commissioner Vern L. Hill said the change in uniforms was made primarily to put license applicants at ease and reduce anxiety. The new uniform consists of a light blue shirt, blue blazer and dark blue trousers or skirt. No badges will be included. Only the DMV emblem patch on the shirt and blazer will be worn. A red and blue striped tie will be worn by the men.

The new uniform will cost 25% less than the police type-uniform. First, there will be no hat and leather hardware used. Secondly, the police - type uniform had to be tailored to each Examiner, while the civilian-type uniform can be bought in standard off-the-rack sizes. No new uniforms have been purchased in recent years, in anticipation of this changeover. Most existing uniforms have become unserviceable.

The change in title was made in order to emphasize that these men and women are being cross-trained to handle a wide variety of public -contact activities for DMV.

According to Commissioner Hill, 162 Field Services Representatives serve at 126 locations in Virginia. He said the new uniforms would help them get away from the law enforcement image, since their primary activity is testing applicants. He emphasized that these are not State Police officers. They are unarmed and are not charge with responsibility for law enforcement. State and local police undergo special training for their law enforcement role.

Third Class Mail Rate Is Increased

Although many patrons of the post office may not have noticed it, there has been a modest increase in the cost of mailing single pieces under the third class rate, an increase which went into effect March 12.

The former rate was 8¢ for the first two ounces and 2¢ for each additional ounce. The new rate is 8¢ for the first two ounces and 2¢ for the next ounce, etc. For a full 16 ounces this will increase the cost from 36¢ to 45¢.

One of the main users of the mail to be affected by the rate increase is the third class bulk user. The cost of bulk mail has gone up from the former 4¢ per piece to 5¢ per piece. The per pound rate for bulk mailers has increased to 28¢ per pound, from the former 23¢.

Postal rates for qualified non-profit organizations remain unchanged. There are four in Appomattox County, according to Postmaster H. W. Conner.

State Farm Bureau President Here For Annual Meeting

Speaker for the annual Farm Bureau membership dinner, held Saturday evening was Robert Delano (center), state president, Va. Farm Bureau. County president is Earl Pickett of Pamplin (far right) with Mrs. Bertha Jones (Harold B.) of Spout Spring (far left), treasurer.

State Farm Bureau president Robert Delano, of Warsaw, Virginia was honored guest and speaker at the annual membership meeting of the Appomattox County Farm Bureau held Saturday evening in the cafeteria Appomattox County High School.

County president Earl Pickett presided.

State president Delano, serving his 10th year as president told the members and guests that the Farm Bureau in Virginia serves 25,600 family members and that Farm Bureau is celebrating its 23rd year since reorganization as a federated organization.

He spoke of many Farm Bureau accomplishments, "We try to scrutinize legislation," he said, "and if legislation is not right, we try to get it changed." This applies both to the Va. General Assembly and the U. S. Congress, he said.

Delano spoke of Farm Bureau effect on recent supermarket advertising and said that he felt the Bureau was influential in stopping the ads urging people "eat to buy red meat." He added that livestock sales and promotion through the Bureau involves 35 Virginia counties and that the tire and battery sales program is increasing yearly and since its beginning in 1965 has become a $2 million program.

Delano asked for and received audience questions and answers about the benefits of Farm Bureau membership.

Others on the program included a treasurer's report from Mrs. Bertha Jones (R.B.)

Insurance advisor, Herbert Goodman, expressed appreciation for the volume of insurance service inthe county and told the group that the county Bureau "receives direct benefit from insurance premiums."

County president Earl Pickett said that the group, through representation in Richmond and during General Assembly deliberations, "had quite a bit of success" with the agriculture budget as a whole and parti-

Appomattox Will Receive $692,000 For Secondary Roads In Fiscal 1972-73

Appomattox County's share of the nearly $11 million budget for Lynchburg District's secondary roads in fiscal 1972-73 is $692,000, an increase of $119,-826 over last year.

For the state as a whole the State Highway Department will spend $108 million for construction and maintenance of Virginia's 43,000 miles of secondary roads.

Budget for the three-county Lynchburg district, Amherst, Appomattox and Campbell is $10,898,058 over the present fiscal year allocation of $8,-991,942.

Altogether the total Virginia secondary roads budget for the new fiscal year is up approximately 20 per cent over the $80 million apportioned to the system for the current fiscal year, chiefly because of the additional funds to be provided by the motor fuel tax increase approved by the General Assembly.

Thomas R. Glass, Lynchburg Highway District Commissioner, said that the almost $2,000,-000 increase in district secondary funds is some of the first evidence of what the additional 2 cents increase in gasoline tax will mean to this area.

Total secondary road funds are distributed among the counties by a formula that takes into account such factors as land areas, population, road mileage, vehicle miles of travel and road need.

Appomattox County will receive $426,301 in four-factor funds; $84,662 in matched FAS or equivalent funds; $181,137 in Acts of 1964, 1966 and 1972 funds for a total of $692,000.

In recent years, the statewide average for the secondary system has been approximately 28 per cent of total highway funds, exclusive of federal insterstate aid.

The department said the average will be continued under the new 1972-82 road improvement program for which the assembly provided additional revenue. The program and 2-cents -a-gallon increase in the gas tax will become effective July 1.

TOURIST REVENUE SCORES GAIN

RICHMOND --Tourist revenue and travelers to Virginia scored impressive gains last year, according to a report just released by the Virginia State Travel Service.

Forty-six million travelers who visited or passed through Virginia in 1971 spent an estimated $815,000,000. They were an estimated two million more travelers in 1971 than during the previous year.

For 1971, tourist dollars in Virginia were up $55,000-000 from the estimated $860,000,-000 spent the previous year. Also, an estimated $80,000,000 were paid in Virginia state taxes by all travelers last year -- up $13,900,000 from 1970.

The number of person - nights spent in the Commonwealth by travelers was 38 million -- up 2 million from 1970.

These sets of figures were prepared for the State Travel Service by Dr. Lewis Copeland, a University of Tennessee statistician who uses a specialized formula for determining tourism revenue. Dr. Copeland's estimates, which are also compiled for ten other southern states, are attained through a computation of census figures, sales tax revenues and traffic counts.

In addition to these gains, total inquiries at Virginia state travel offices and stations last year showed a 38 per cent increase; telephone, mail and walk-in visitation was 819,366, compared to 593,807 in 1970.

"Based on these figures and other economic indicators, tourism made an impact of more than $1 billion on the state's economy last year", said Marshall E. Murdaugh, Commissioner, Virginia State Travel Service. "We are very pleased with the results; particulary in view of the fact that 1971 was a year of continuing inflation – a condition that traditionally has an adverse effect on the average family's travel budget".

School Funds Will Increase For Appomattox In '72-'73

Highway Fund Gets $118,000 Locally

NEW YORK — For Appomattox County's car owners, how expensive a proposition has the nation's controversial 42,500 - mile Interstate Highway System become?

How much are they paying to the Federal government, through gasoline taxes and other automobile taxes, toward the cost of construction?

On the basis of the latest figures, their contribution in the past year came to approximately $118,000.

This is exclusive of the auto-use taxes collected from them by the local governments.

The average Appomattox county driver, traveling 10,000 miles a year and getting 14 miles to the gallon, is paying some $30 annually into the Highway Trust Fund. Those who cover 15,000 miles pay $45. Most of it comes from the four-cents-per-gallon tax on gas.

The money collected in the fund finances 90 percent of the road construction costs. The other 10 percent comes from the states.

A battle is now brewing in Congress and elsewhere over the use of this trust fund, which brings in over $5 billion a year and has a current surplus of about $3.6 billion.

Should this money continue to be used solely for road building, as it has been since 1956, or should part of the used for what critics believe to be more immediate needs, such as mass transit?

The powerful group of truckers, automobile manufacturers, bus lines and others, the so-called "highway lobby," has steadily opposed attempts to divert any of the revenue for airport construction, rail transportation and the like.

However, many groups across the country are now attacking this stand. They contend that highway construction is being over-emphasized at a time when other needs are being neglected.

The Interstate Highway System, begun 16 years ago at an estimated cost of $41 billion, will cost approximately $75 billion before it is finished, in 19-78.

Because it has six years more to go, Appomattox County car owners will be putting an additional $707,000 into the trust fund before they are through, based upon the 3,930 cars in operation locally.

Jaycees Sponsor 'Meet Your Legislators'

The Appomattox Jaycees are having a "Meet Your Virginia Legislators Night" May 3,1972, at 7:30 p.m. at the Appomattox Court House. The public is invited and urged to attend. The Honorable Howard P. Anderson, State Senator representing this area, and the Honorable Claude W. Anderson, member of the House of Delegates representing Appomattox and other counties, will be present and will each make a brief summary of their impressions of the General Assembly session just recently concluded in Richmond and then the meeting will be open for questions by anyone present.

The Jaycees feel it is highly important that the people of this area not only know their representatives but hear first hand their impressions of the past General Assembly, as well as the duties and responsibilities of the members of the General Assembly. The Jaycees urge all people interested in good government to attend this important meeting.

Up $64,462 Over -'71-'72

Appomattox County can expect to receive about $64,000 more in state school funds in the next school year than in the present school year.

Figures released by the State Department of Education show that Appomattox County will receive $644,619 in the next school year, up $64,462 over the present year's state allocation, $580,157.

The Department said local school districts – except in a few cases – will get more state funds than before despite the $32 million cut the General Assembly made in Governor Linwood Holton's public education budget request for the next two fiscal years.

But the State Department of Education in advising local school superintendents that estimates of state school funds they could expect will have to be revised downward.

New estimates, taking into account the budget cut, are that the total state contribution to local school systems will be about 10 per cent under earlier estimates.

Appomattox county school superintendent Earl Smith says that the amount of state funds is figured at with a rather complicated formula.

The increase in "true value" of county property from $54 million in 1968 to $74 million in 1972 means that Appomattox county's share for the coming year is considerably less than it would have been if the "true value" yardstick were the same as in years before. True values of land within a county are arrived at by comparing real estate sales and assessments in this county with those of other counties, that is, the selling price per acre, and comparisons are based on a year's sales activity.

The amount of state funds is based on a school population of 2,353 pupils.

Named Service Unit Chairman

Mrs. Harry Alderson (Elizabeth) has been named Service Unit chairman, Appomattox County Girl Scouts.

Mrs. Alderson has had wide experience in Scouting work and other volunteer services, according to Mrs. Jeanice Paulette, field director, District II, Va. Skyline Council, who made the announcement of the appointment.

Mrs. Alderson was a Brownie Scout troop leader in South Boston prior to moving here with her husband and two daughters. She also has a 100 hour service pin from the Halifax County Hospital Auxiliary which she served as treasurer. Another of her interests is the Red, Cross Bloodmobile which she has helped as a volunteer during many visits to the South Boston area.

Both of the Alderson daughters are enrolled in Scouting. Eleven year old Cynthia Lee is a second year Junior Scout, Troop 336 with Mrs. Dorothy Wooten, troop leader. Eight year old Sandra Dee is a member of Mrs. Nancy Elder's Brownie Troop 833.

As Service Unit chairman Mrs. Alderson will help with the coordination of all Girl Scout activities throughout the county.

ATTEND DISTRICT UDC MEETING

Mrs. Louise Plunkett, Va. Division Registrar; Mrs. Rachel F. Lawson and Mrs. Lena Eversole, spent Friday and Saturday at Luray, Virginia at the 5th District meeting, Va. Division, United Daughters of the Confederacy.

Clock Given To McLean House

The George Mitchell clock on the mantlepiece of the McLean master bedroom (above) is a gift from Mr. and Mrs. Joe C. Nance (left and center) of Bon Air, Va. given Sunday, April 9 to the National Park Service and accepted by park superintendent F. A. Gould (right). Mr. Nance purchased the McLean House clock in the 1950's, has been offered a considerable sum for it many times, but decided to "do what I really want to do" and that is to return the clock to the McLean bedroom where it was on the day of surrender, April 9, 1865. Suit. Could presented the Nances with a certificate-receipt and a replica of stacked arms in cast metal as a memento. The Nances presented the Park with a signed verification of the authenticity of the clock, and Mr. Nance, who is a contractor and clock repairman, says he plans to put the clock in operating condition in the near future.
